

Can polypropylene film capacitors replace electrolytic capacitors?

They can replace electrolytic capacitors in applications where the voltage is above 500V. RS have a great range of capacitors including these polypropylene film capacitors in various capacitance, voltage ratings and tolerances for all your electronics needs.

Who makes a capacitor?

We source from globally renowned manufacturers AVX, Murata, KEMET, Panasonic, TDK and many more, so that you can rely on performance. A capacitor is a device used to store energy as an electric charge, similar to a battery but they are able to release the charge much faster.

What is a capacitor used for?

A capacitor is a device used to store energy as an electric charge, similar to a battery but they are able to release the charge much faster. The amount it's able to store is known as capacitance, this is measured in Farads (F). They comprise 2 metal plates (conductors) separated by an electrical insulator (dielectric).

What is a decoupling capacitor used for?

Here are some of their uses: Decoupling capacitors - can control high-frequency noise, removing voltage ripples from the power supply. Energy storage and supply - deliver stored energy bursts quickly, like a camera flash for example. Signal filtering - they are able to block low-frequency signals and allow higher-frequencies to pass through.
